Byers, Author of Farmer's Diary, Dies

Taught In Mansfield 25 Years

Column Was Widely Read

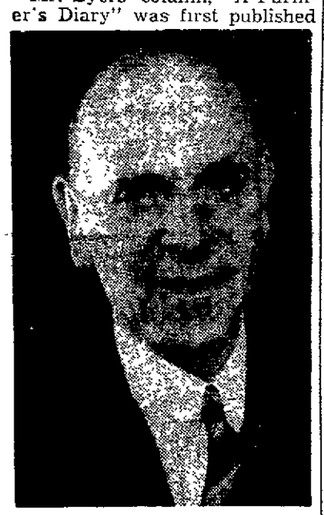

Calvin A. Byers has written his last "Farmer's Diary."

The 65-year-old author of the widely-read News-Journal column, and friend of hundreds of former pupils at Mansfield Senior high school died yesterday at 7 p. m. at People's hospital.

He had entered the hospital last Thursday for a physical check-up following intermittent heart attacks which began on April 1, 1848, when he was stricken while addressing the Rotary club at Greenwich.

An English teacher at Mansfield Senior high for 25 years, Mr. Byers retired last month, planning to spend his time at his farm home near Bellville. He had written many columns about the farm where he had lived with Mrs. Byers and their five children for the past ten years.

Mr. Byers' column, "A Farmer's Diary" was first published in the News-Journal Jan. 9, 1937. It immediately acquired a wide following with its homely philosophy and excellent writing. In a short time other daily newspapers and a number of weeklies began to ask for it. Mr. Byers syndicated his column and at the time of his death it was appearing in nearly a score of newspapers.

GOT MANY LETTERS

Mr. Byers received from ten to sixteen fan letters a day about his column and some have come from Americans as far away as India, China, Panama and islands in the South Pacific.

One article about the death of his cow, Betsy, brought an offer of another cow from a reader. A Navy man wrote to him during the war "You know, Mr. Byers, I've been reading your column and thinking this country needs more men like you and Abe Lincoln." Mr. Byers was reticent about showing that letter because he considered it too complimentary.

The column appeared six times a week on the editorial page of The News-Journal.

A book of his newspaper pieces was compiled and he had been working with the publisher on final details of its printing.

Mr. Byers life was wrapped around farming. He was born on a farm in Bedford county, Pa., the youngest of six children. He frequently wrote about his "Pennsylvania Dutch childhood.

Surviving Mr. Byers are his widow, Lois, at home, his daughter, Mrs. Margaret Brightbill, Mansfield, four sons, Stanley, Hugo, William and Edward, all at home; and two brothers Harvey, Ashland and Charles E., of McMullen, Mich.

Also surviving is one granddaughter.

Friends may call at the Snyder funeral home in Bellville until noon Wednesday. Services are to be held at St. Paul's Salem Lutheran church, Bellville, at 2 p. m. Wednesday with the Rev. Matthew G. Madden, First Congregational church, Mansfield, officiating.

Burial is to be in Bellville cemetery.

Red Troops Launch New Offensive

Open Drive On China's Capital

HONG KONG — (UP) — Chinese communists unleashed a major offensive along a 500-mile front today in a sweeping three-pronged drive on Canton, the refugee capital of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's battered nationalists.

From Chiang, an important commercial port on the upper Yangtze river, to Tsungjen, the main Red Base in the central province of Kiangsi, communist armies rolled southward apparently unchecked.

The western column sprung from Ichang, captured a few days ago by six divisions under the command of Gen. Lin-Piao, conqueror of Manchuria.

Lin's forces also had captured the Yangtze port of Kiangling a eight other key towns in that area, reports said.

The central column, meanwhile, skirted Lake Tungting, south of communist - held Hankow, and drove into Hunan province taking Changshou at the traingle where Hunn, Hupeh and Kiangsi provinces meet.

The eastern column struck along the Chekian - Kiangsi railway.

Reports from Changsha said the provincial government was preparing to flee southward. Advance communist units were reported hammering toward Kanchow, the refugee capital of Kiangsi province — a city only 50 miles from the Kwantung border. Canton is in Kwantung province.

The triple - barreled offensive got underway after almost two months' delay while communist leaders awaited reinforcements and the recession of seasonal floods.

7-Year-Old Awaits Home

SAN FRANCISCO — (UP) — Seven - year - old Teddy Moreno, who "deaded" his friend, the corner grocer, with a 32 caliber pistol, waited today for someone to find him a new home.

Teddy played happily in the nursery at the juvenile home, unaware of the fuss he raised by killing Fred Throckmorton, 67, Friday night.

"The groceryman used to give me candy and cookies," said Teddy. "He was a nice guy. It was hard to pull the trigger. And then it went bang —like a firecracker.

"He fell down. I deaded him."

He added Teddy was the oldest of six children and lived with his father, John Moreno, a truck driver, and Moreno's second wife, Consuelo. Spino said the family situation was "disturbed."

Teddy's own mother abandoned him when he was a baby, juvenile authorities found. He spent the first four years of his life handed about from one relative to the other.

Kills Man, Wife For $5 In Cash

LOUISA, Ky. — (AP) — State police said today that 20-year-old Newby Whitt had signed a statement admitting the July 3rd shotgun slayings of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Williams, a young Magoffin county farm couple.

PARADE WINNERS — Judges were so confused about the classification of the unusual entries in the parade that preceded dedication of Lucas Memorial Park yesterday that they decided to make awards only to the best-decorated bicycles. Bruce Harris, attired as an Indian brave, is shown receiving the boy's award while Imogene Whitinger got the girl's prize.

Steel Fact Board Meets

Consider Date To Start Hearings

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(INS)—President Truman's special fact-finding board announced today that public hearings in the steel wage dispute will open in New York on July 28.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Three men who are going to be busy the rest of the summer —President Truman's steel fact-finding board — hurried into Washington today for their first meeting.

They came to confer with Presidential assistant John R. Steelman in the White House and talk about such things as when to start hearings.

With the eyes of all industry and unions upon them, the three members will hear arguments for and against a fourth round of post-war wage raises in the steel industry, and for and against larger pension and insurance plans.

Arthur Goldberg, general counsel of the CIO United Steelworkers of America, has told reporters:

"We are ready to proceed. We believe we have sufficient data at our own disposal respecting the financial situations of the various companies to proceed immediately."

Mr. Truman appointed the three-man board, headed by Dr. Carroll R. Daugherty, professor of business economics at Northwestern university, to study the steel dispute and make recommendations by Aug. 30. The other two members are David L. Cole of Paterson, N. J., and Samuel I. Rosenman, of New York City, both lawyers.

The union has postponed a strike until Sept. 14 at the President's request.

War Dead Honored

1,000 Join Lucas Park Dedication

By VIRGINIA LEE
(N.-J. Staff Correspondent)

More than 1,000 people watched the colorful parade and ceremonies dedicating Lucas Memorial park, Sunday afternoon.

They heard Rev. M. P. Paetznick, of Bucyrus, review the ideals, heritages and responsibilities of the American way of life as he dedicated the state roadside park and community recreation area to the community's service people, living and dead. Many veterans had a part in the day's pageantry with a beautiful floral arrangement by the Hilltop Greenhouse displayed in memory of the war dead.

Lucas Boy Scouts and the Mt. Zion band led the parade that featured floats, pets with their youthful masters, decorated bicycles, a delegation from the Clear Fork Saddle club, other club groups, clowns and marchers, young and old, in gay attire. There was humorous floral series with participants ranging in age from a few months to 92 years.

Threatening skies were a constant source of worry to Herbert Fox parade marshal, but the intense dampness did not give way to real rain until the parade and program had been concluded.

Boy Scouts had charge of raising the flag and giving the pledge of allegiance. The band, on hay wagons pulled by a high stepping team of horses, played a patriotic concert and accompanied the audience that sang: "God Bless America."

Rev. Ralph Chapman, of North Ridgeville, who during his Lucas pastorate was the park board president, gave the invocation and benediction. Hugh McConnell, the present park board president, was in charge of the program that was amplified through the area by a sound truck employed as a contribution of the Byerly Funeral Home.

The park's two sections are just off State Route 39 on the east edge of Lucas. The park includes a parking lot, a fountain house, numerous fireplaces, picnic tables and sanitary toilets separated by a tool house.

On one side of the road is the roadside park while on the other side are the community recreation facilities.

Union Agent Kills Rival

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — (UP) — A seriously - wounded AFL union leader was charged with homicide today after he and a union rival engaged in a heated argument which flared into a gun battle.

Slain was John Jones, 43, business agent of Local 42 of the AFL Hod Carriers, Building and Common Laborers union and a tavern-owner.

Arrested for the fatal shooting of Jones was John Oertli, 36, whom Jones had defeated for the post of business agent last month.

Also wounded during the shootings at the crowded Palladium bar early yesterday was a spectator, Mrs. Virginia Lux, 29, shot in the left ankle by a stray bullet.

Witnesses gave conflicting accounts of how the argument and shooting started.

Oertli said that he and Jones had been feuding for some time over "personal and union matters."

He said Jones and Walter Douglas, 39, a laborer, followed him into the tavern's washroom, where the fight began. Jones pulled out his gun first and shot Oertli in both thighs and the right forearm, Oertli said.

Then Oertli drew his own gun and fired at Jones, he said.

Renewal Of School Tax Asked

Levy Needed For Operation

Renewal of the three-mill tax levy for operating expenses of the Mansfield city school district will be asked at the November general election.

The school board today requested the county board of elections to put the question on the ballot. The proposed levy calls for a tax of $3 on each $1,000 of property valuation and would run for five years.

John H. Eisaman, clerk of the school board, said the levy would amount to about $250,000 for 1950, with the new valuation that is being set up.

During 1948, the total received from the levy amounted to $212,335 while for 1949, the sum will amount to about $225,000.

Eisaman said the levy goes for salaries, maintenance, stationery, repairs and other general operating expenses.

The Lucas school board also asked for renewal of a three-mill levy for current operating expenses. That levy would also run for five years and amounts to $3 per thousand dollars of property valuation.

Troy township trustees certified to the board a resolution calling for a one mill levy for operating expenses of the township, especially for proper maintenance of cemeteries in the township. The levy, for five years, would amount to $1 on a thousand dollar property valuation.

Lloyd M. Walters filed his nominating petition for trustee of Perry township.

Mercury Fails To Hit 80 On Sunday

The calendar shows mid-summer but the temperature yesterday was the coolest Mansfield has enjoyed for more than a month.

And, according to the weather bureau, Ohio is on the edge of a low-pressure area which will bring more cool weather by Wednesday.

Yesterday the temperature failed to reach 80 degrees for the first time since June 9. Mansfield's high yesterday was 74 recorded at 2 p. m. However today at 10:30 a. m., the temperature had reached 75 degrees.

Rainfall yesterday was enough to be bothersome, but not enough to do much good. It measured .14 of an inch. State police said the rain was just enough to make the highways dangerous by mixing with the dust and forming a slippery mud. Other parts of the state, however, experienced downpours in the afternoon.

Continue To Probe Blaze

State Fire Marshal officers and local detectives are continuing their investigation of the June 30th fire that swept through the second floor of the Richland Post No. 72, American Legion, 217½ North Diamond street, officials said today.

Both the state fire mashal's office and Mansfield Fire Chef L. J. Steele have ruled the fire was arson.

State men were in Mansfield several days last week in their investigation of the fire.

Local detectives today said the case was "still under investigation."

The fire destroyed all of the furnishings and most of the second floor of the legion home. Investigators found bottles containing what was believed to be turpentine at the scene of the fire.

A suit for $1,250 as a result of gambling losses has been settled for $300, it was disclosed today when a writ of execution was issued against the defendant, Glenn D. Bethea, doing business as the Corner Billiards, 246 North Mulberry street.

A common pleas court journal entry showed that Bethea had confessed judgment for $300 and costs and that the plaintiff, Mrs Helen J. Ethel, of 542½ Lily street, had agreed to accept the sum. The execution was issued to the sheriff to carry out the judgment.

Mrs. Ethel sued the pool room owner for $750, which she claimed her husband had lost gambling at the pool hall and for $500 in damages.

Mrs. Ethel was represented by Attorney Homer G. Clark and Bethea by Attorney H. Eugene Ryan.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Rep. McGregor (R-Ohio) was reported making "good recovery" today after an ear operation at the Bethesda, Md., naval hospital.

McGregor's office said the congressman will be in the hospital "for a few weeks" but that his condition has shown steady improvement since the operation Saturday night.

McGregor has been in the hospital several days because of an eye and ear infection, which the operation is expected to correct, his secretary said.

Heated Farm Battle Seen

WASHINGTON — (AP) — What may be the toughest farm battle of many years opens in the House tomorrow. Its outcome may influence political fortunes in next year's congressional elections.

A coalition of Republicans and an undetermined number of Democrats is fighting the Truman administration's effort to change the present farm program that grew out of the Roosevelt "New Deal."

Rep. Gore (D-Tenn), leading the coalition, claimed victory today. Administration forces refused to concede.

The issue is not whether the farmer should have government help in getting a fair price for his products — but how it should be done.

Vaughan's Ouster Demanded

'Other Agencies' Seen Involved

WASHINGTON — (UP) — Senate investigators hinted today that other government agencies besides the Army may be involved in the activities of "five per centers" in Washington's thriving "influence industry."

They refused to specify what other agencies are under scrutiny by a Senate investigating subcommittee. But they said the group hopes to determine the extent of the five per centers' practice before it pens public hearings in about two weeks.

Chairman Clyde R. Hoey, D., N.C., told reporters the subcommittee is interested not only in the cases of the two major generals temporarily suspended pending investigation, but in "all phases of the subject."

"We intend to explore all avenues that may give us information about people who held themselves out as having unusual influence," Hoey said.

WANTS VAUGHAN OUSTED

Meanwhile, the White House was silent on a demand by Rep. Paul W. Shafer, R., Mich., that President Truman suspend his own military aide, Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, for "being implicated in the same case."

Shafer said he had no evidence against Vaughan except the general's recent remark to reporters that he knows of "at least 300" so-called five per centers. He added that Vaughan's conduct "has been, to put it mildly, in the poorest taste."

The Michigan congressman praised Army Secretary Gordon Gray for suspending Maj. Gens. Alden H. Waitt and Herman Feldman for apparent implication in the "five per cent" racket. The Army inspector general is working closely with Hoey's subcommittee on the case.

Gray said Saturday the two generals were suspended on the basis of evidence uncovered by William P. Rogers, chief counsel of the subcommittee and his aides. Waitt is chief of the chemical corps, and Feldman is quartermaster general.

The Army secretary said evidence presented to date indicates that Feldman supplied procurement information to a contractor's representative "under circumstances which appear irregular." Waitt was accused of "improperly" furnishing personnel data to an unauthorized individual.

Neither general would comment on the accusations.

Shafer urged Mr. Truman to "follow the example" of Gray and suspend Vaughan.

Hoey's subcommittee went into action June 21 after the New York Herald Tribune said in a story that James V. Hunt, a former officer in the quartermaster corps, had guaranteed to get government contracts for a small businessman in return for a retainer and a five per cent commission.

Lad Who Lives On Borrowed Blood Winning His Long Fight For Life

NEW YORK—Little Louie, the kid who lives on borrowed blood, has had a good year.

"I don't get as tired as I used to," he said, as he rested on a hospital bed after receiving his 500th transfusion.

Louis was given his first transfusion at the age of seven months when doctors discovered he had Cooley's anemia. This is a rare childhood disease whose victims are unable to fully replenish their own blood.

There is no cure known. They must live on the blood of others or die. And usually they die anyway. But in Louie's wiry 93-pound frame there is a great gusto for living, a stout heart that won't give up.

He is in his 14th year now, and there is a good chance he may yet win his long and tedious gamble for life.

"If we can pull him through until he's 20, he may improve," said Dr. Harvey Gollance, deputy medical superintendent at the Kings county hospital. "There are cases of that kind in the medical records."

Louis is a quick-witted, cheerful, intelligent boy. Somehow he has learned the odds are against him, but he discounts the odds. He's sure he'll make it. And hundreds of New Yorkers who never saw him have helped keep the small, dark-haired kid alive through blood donations to the Brooklyn Red Cross.

He talked about his future as he lay there waiting for his dad to come and take him home.

"When I grow up I'm going to be a radio sports announcer," he confided shyly. "Everybody at school says I got a good speaking voice and I take part in all the plays."

Louie didn't do too well in his English studies this year — "They threw adverbial phrases at us, and I can't tell a dependent clause from an independent clause very easy" — but that doesn't worry him. He feels, with some justification, that grammar isn't everything in sports announcing.

He used to have to stay in the hospital several days, receiving a pint of blood each day. Now he only comes each Thursday, gets a pint, and goes home.

"I know a lot of the people here now," said Louie, who has become a kind of mascot at the hospital. "After all, I been coming here since I was just a kid."

"Yes, and you tell the doctors now how to give transfusions," smiled Dr. Margaret Rice, a pediatrician. "And some Thursdays you don't come when you should."

Louis squirmed and looked busy. He doesn't like to talk about the times he plays hookey from the transfusion needle.

"I play first base and the outfield," said Louis and added modestly, "of course, I do a little pitching, too."

He has never seen a major league baseball game, and one of his biggest ambitions is to watch his hero, Joe DiMaggio, knock a home run. He prefers the New York Yankees over the Dodgers — treason in Brooklyn.

"I just like the way the Yankees play," he said. "I like their style better. I saw them on television once."

The 500 pints of blood borrowed by Louie in his short lifetime is equivalent to the amount that flows in the veins of 50 adults. Sometime he'd like to be a donor himself.

"I'd like to help someone the same way people help me," he said.

No Action Taken In Drink Death

Police Await 'Developments'

Detectives said today no action has been taken in the death last Friday of Albert Pickett, 49, of rear of 161 West Sixth street, who police believe may have been poisoned.

Contents of man's stomach will be annalyzed, police said.

A physician who treated the man Friday morning said he had complained about a drink he had received that "tasted funny." According to the man's family he had not been ill before taking the drink. He died about four hours later and the coroner was immediately notified.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p. m. Tuesday at the Geiger funeral home. The Rev. L. G. Maddox, pastor of the Church of God in Christ will officiate, with burial at Mansfield cemetery.

Mrs. Comer Guest Of Tots, Parents

Ninety three Richland countians and their 53 adopted children showed their appreciation to the woman who brought them together when they honored Mrs. Marjorie Comer, juvenile court worker who placed the children with their parents, at a party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Phil Schmutzler, 630 Lexington avenue, Saturday afternoon.

The children who ranged in age from less than six months to 13 years old, all were placed by Mrs. Comer before this work was taken over by the Child Welfare board last March.

An informal program by the children was presented on the lawn at the Schmutzler home. The program included recitations, songs, and dances. Music for the afternoon was furnished by two accordionists from Smart's music studio.

The children shared their party with children at the Richland county children's home when ice cream and cookies from the party were taken to the home after the program was over.

The committee in charge of planning the party was headed by Mr. and Mrs. Elmer A. Eckert. They were assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Earl Dickson, Mrs. Edgar Robertson, Mrs. Homer Beck, and Mrs. Gilbert Spell.

PILOT PRAISED

Wilbur H. Shafer, the pilot who successfully brought two persons injured near Mansfield in an auto accident a week ago, to a doctor in the east received a letter commending him for his mercy mission from Raymond C. Parson who arranged for the trip. Shafer ran into bad weather and an air traffic tie-up when he tried to land at National airport, Washington. He landed instead in a field which was even nearer the hospital. The letter says in part "Obviously your flight over the mountains and into Washington was made under the most unsatisfactory conditions and your landing on the farm was undoubtedly made under even more unsatisfactory conditions. With these thoughts in mind the families of the injured persons have asked that I advise you of their gratitude for you because of your obvious expert handling of the plane and your determination to bring the patients through despite the poor weather. They are also deeply appreciative of the observant care you showed both parties which appears to have exceeded that which might be classed as duty."

No Change In Yanks Margin Over Indians

Today's Sport Parade

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK —(UP)— Square-jawed Bucky Walters was a puzzled man today and what put the Cincinnati manager on the ropes had nothing to do with the reasons why his Reds were mired deep in the second division.

As far as the Reds were concerned, their troubles were obvious to anybody who ever had seen a baseball and no comment was necessary—or forthcoming—from Walters.

But Bucky was trying to figure why so few pitchers can make good in relief roles.

Walters allowed that it must be a mental problem.

"I know, because I never was any good as a relief pitcher," Walters explained.

★

"I REMEMBER one time we were at the Polo grounds and Bill McKechnie started looking down the bench for a reliefer," Bucky smiled.

The big fellow pointed at his chest and said:

"How about me, Bill, I'm ready."

Bucky chuckled and recalled: "I went out there and boom, boom, boom. They had three runs so quick it made me blink—as I walked to the showers."

McKechnie stamped into the clubhouse after the game, hunted up Walters where he was sitting far back in a corner of the dressing room, and shook his finger at Bucky while he snorted:

"The next time I look for a relief pitcher, don't you open your big mouth."

IT'S STILL a mystery why he never was able to pitch relief even though, like a lot of other unsuccessful relief pitchers, he warmed up just as if he was starting a game.

Walters' current problem is getting Ewell Blackwell back into hurling shape. He disclosed that he had tried a novel method to improve Blackwell's stamina, twice putting Blackwell in the bull pen with orders to match Cincinnati's starting pitcher, pitch for pitch, through nine innings.

★

AS FOR THE pennant races, Walters gives the Yankees the American league nod because of Joe Page's relief tossing.

And, impassionately evaluating his own National league from the murky depths, Bucky picks Brooklyn "off the way they have played against us."

"But don't count out the Cards," he warned. "They are solid and they close with a long home stand."

Bucky is more worried, however, about staying out of last place.

Tribe Gains Split With Boston Sox

CLEVELAND —(AP)— The Cleveland Indians are seemingly unable to dent the 5½ game hold the New York Yankees have on first place, but there's a consolation — the Yanks can't seem to increase the lead.

While the Tribe split a doubleheader with the Boston Red Sox yesterday, the Yanks did the same against the Chicago White Sox. And when the Tribe Friday dropped a game of their series with the Philadelphia Athletics, the Yanks obligingly stumbled before the St. Louis Browns on Saturday.

Tonight the Tribe faces Boston again behind Mike (The Bear) Garcia. Veteran Joe Dobson will hurl for the Bosox.

Vernon Stephens, Boston fence buster, and 20-year-old Chuck Stobbs collaborated in perfect harmony yesterday as Boston followed a 4-2 Cleveland victory in the opener with a 2-1 win before 73,599 fans.

Stephens was a bad boy against the Indians all day, with his ninth-inning homer in the nightcap breaking a 1-1 tie for the game.

In the sixth inning, he smashed a single to left field to score Johnny Pesky with the tying run. The Indians had taken the lead in the first when they scored their only run on Dale Mitchell's twelfth triple of the year and a single by Ray Boone.

Stobbs allowed only four hits and fanned nine to gain his fourth win of the season. After the first he gave up only two safeties.

Early Wynn and Mickey Vernon were the heroes for the Tribe in the opener.

WYNN HITS HOMER

With the score 2-2 in the eighth, Wynn belted a home run over the right field fence. In the pitching department, he gave up only six hits and stopped the Bosox twice with the bases loaded.

With the sacks filled in the sixth he got Bobby Doerr on a pop foul. With the bases loaded again in the eighth, he fanned Birdie Tebbetts.

Vernon drove in three of the four Tribe runs in the opener with two timely hits.

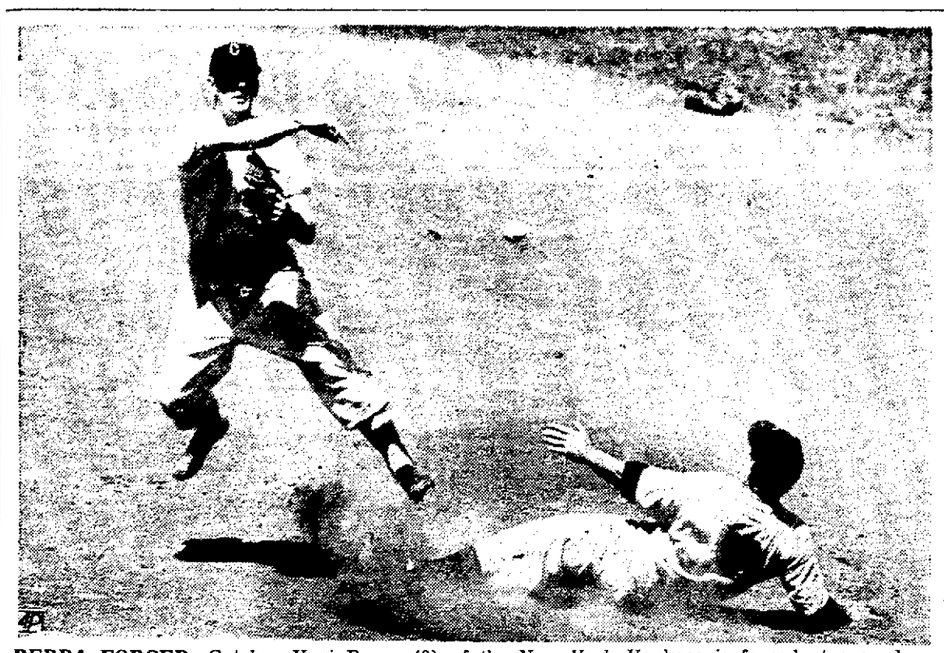

The first was a double to score Wynn and Mitchell in the sixth. In the eighth, he scored Mitchell with a single shortly after Wynn's homer broke the 2-2 tie.

Ken Keltner made his first appearance in the Tribe lineup since June 29, pinch hitting for Bob Kennedy with two out in the ninth of the nightcap. He cracked a liner to left field, but Ted Williams backed up to the fence to make the catch.

Al Benton, 38-year-old veteran, was the loser in the second game. He allowed only eight hits in eight innings. Bob Feller relieved him in the ninth and retired the Bosox in order.

Jack Kramer, who has yet to win a game with Boston this season, was foiled in another attempt yesterday. He started beautifully, retiring 14 men in order before Manager Lou Boudreau singled in the fifth. He allowed seven hits in dropping his sixth decision.

As the Indians took the field in the ninth inning of the opener, one of the roving bands at the stadium played "Happy Birthday to You." It was in honor of Boudreau's 32nd birthday and he doffed his cap.

BERRA FORCED—Catcher Yogi Berra (8) of the New York Yankees is forced at second, as White Sox Second Baseman Cass Michaels gets off throw to first in attempt to catch Dick Kryhoski, Yanks first baseman. Play came in second inning of first game of Six-Yanks doubleheader in Chicago Sunday when Kryhoski tapped one to Shortstop Luke Appling. Throw to first was too late to complete attempted double play. Lexington, Lucas Take Lead In County League

Lexington and Lucas started off the second half Richland County league season in first place with victories yesterday.

Lucas edged first half champion Mansfield Hawks, 4-3, at Tillman park while Lexington slipped by Ontario by the same score at Lexington. Roger Iceman pitched the victory for Lucas.

Lexington then beat Shelby Settlement, 2-0, in a non-league game as the second part of a double-header. Mansfield T. and E. Tavern, having a day off from league play, lost at Loudonville, 10-7.

Wilbur Wade, late of the Penn Auto-Sporting Goods team, pitched the league victory for Lexington. He scattered seven Ontario hits and walked only two while striking out four men. Wade went to shortstop in the second game and banged out two doubles in two times at bat.

Stull, Lexington first baseman, led the way in both games, getting five for seven for the day. Ontario pitcher Sandell had a homer and two doubles in four trips.

Dick Roberts hurled the second game for Lexington and allowed Shelby only two hits and one walk. The game was a seven-inning affair.

TAVERNS TRAIL

T. and E. Tavern fell behind 8-0 in the first inning of its game at Loudonville and never caught up. Rain stopped the game at the end of the sixth frame. Tavern Pitcher Al Boyer walked eight Loudonville men and gave up nine hits in the six innings.

Boyer also clouted a home run in the fourth inning to help along a six-run Tavern rally. T. and E. will play the Shelby Merchants in a league game at Shelby Wednesday. The game was originally scheduled for Aug. 14. It will be the first second round game for both teams.

Earl Cochell Is Net Victor

GSTAAD, Switzerland — (UP) — Earl Cochell, a sawed off San Franciscan, gained considerable stature in international tennis circles today on the strength of his upset 3-6, 6-3, 2-6, 6-3, 7-5 triumph over Czech ace Jaroslav Drobny in the men's singles finals of the Swiss lawn tennis tournament.

The happy-go-lucky Californian, pressed to the verge of defect often rallied brilliantly to salvage the last two sets and the match.

In the mixed doubles finals, Drobny and Miss Shirley Fry of Akron, O., beat Cochell and Mrs. Sheila Summers of South Africa, 6-2, 6-3.

Two Chicago Sox Join Bench List

CHICAGO — (INS) — The harried Chicago White Sox, whose splendid play at the beginning of the American league season was hamstrung by injuries, added two more men to the bench brigade today.

Manager Jack Onslow said that pitcher Howie Judson and catcher Don Wheeler may be out of action for a week with sore arms.

Mansfield AC Wins Handily

The AC's collected 19 hits off Crestline Pitcher Johnny Johnson. Ryuse, the AC rightfielder, banged out four for four while A. J. Walker had a home run, a double and single in four trips.

Use of Slider Hurt Feller Says Birdie

NEW YORK — (UP) — Getting "too cute" developing a new pitch caused the downfall of Bobby Feller, all-star catcher Birdie Tebbetts asserted today, but the Boston Red Sox backstop insisted that Bullet Bob still had his fast one and was on the way back.

The blocky Birdie, who still thinks that his Red Sox mates will come on to win the American league pennant, doesn't hold with the critics who believe that Feller is through as a star pitcher.

"Trying to throw a slider, being too cute, hurt Feller." Tebbetts explained. "And, while his fast one may not have the old time hop, it still is plenty fast enough."

Birdie's theory was that Feller hurt his arm using the slider when he didn't need it.

"The slider is a resistance pitch," he argued. "When a curve takes only the wrist or the elbow, a slider puts a strain both there and on the shoulder. Feller had all he needed in a curve, a fast ball and a change of pace. That slider put a strain on his shoulder and hurt his fast ball."

Tebbetts said that in one game against the Red Sox last season Feller didn't throw a single fast ball.

"This season he used it and beat us twice," Tebbetts said.

Vern Stephens Rips American Pitching

By JOE REICHLER, Associated Press Sports Writer

If Joe McCarthy's Boston Red Sox fail to overtake the New York Yankees in the American league pennant struggle, it will not be the fault of Vern (Junior) Stephens.

The stocky little McAllister, N. M., shortstop is enjoying his best year at the plate. Barring injury or a sudden slump, little slug should lead his circuit in the two-power departments—home runs and runs batted in.

Stephens currently is pacing the field in both with 23 four baggers and 93 runs batted in His closest pursuer is teammate Ted Williams, who has 21 homers and 89 RBI's.

Vern lashed out two homers and drove in all Boston's runs as the Red Sox divided a doubleheader with the Indians in Cleveland yesterday.

The Tribe won the opener, 4-2. Stephens batted in both Boston runs with a home run and a single in three official times at bat.

The Bosox came back to win the nightcap, 2-1, as young Chuck Stobbs outpitched Veteran Al Benton. Again Stephens fashioned both Boston runs. He singled to score Johnny Pesky with the tying run in the sixth inning, and won the game in the ninth with his 23rd homer.

A'S FALL DOWN

The split prevented the two clubs from making any gain on the pace-setting Yankees, but the Red Sox were able to vault past Philadelphia into third place. The Athletics dropped to fourth place, losing a doubleheader to the Tigers in Detroit, 8-0 and 5-4.

The Yankees split a twin bill with the White Sox in Chicago. Joe DiMaggio's sixth home run in the seventh inning gave the Yankees the opener, 2-1, and Vic Raschi his 14th triumph against only two losses. The White Sox pounded Fred Sanford and Frank Shea for 14 hits to earn a 7-4 triumph in the nightcap.

Paul Campbell, little used first baseman, shared the hero's role with Southpaw Ted Gray as the Tigers mowed down the A's twice to climb within a game and a half of the Mackmen.

Campbell slammed a home run with the bases full and added two singles as Gray blanked the A's, 8-0, in the opener on three hits. The Tiger first baseman then won the second game with an 11th inning single that drove in the winning run in Detroit's second game 5-4 triumph.

The St. Louis Browns swept their first doubleheader of the season, taking two from the Washington Senators, 15-8 and 7-4. Rookie outfielder Roy Sievers sparked the Brownie attack with five hits in seven times at bat.

Brooklyn retained its game and a half lead over runner-up St. Louis, edging out the Chicago Cubs, 4-3, while the Cardinals were beating the Giants in New York, 10-1. The third place Boston Braves lost ground, splitting a twin bill with the Cincinnati Reds, while Pittsburgh nosed out fourth place Philadelphia, 2-1. The Braves won the opener, 5-4, but the Reds came back to win the nightcap, 3-2.

Luis Olmo, recently reinstated Mexican league jumper, broke up the Cub-Dodger battle with a ninth inning homer, his first of the season.

WINS SEVENTH TIME

Red Munger had an easy time winning his seventh game as his Cardinal teammates, Red Schoendienst and Eddie Kazak blasted home runs. The Cards collected 13 hits.

Cliff Chambers bested Russ Meyer in a hurling duel as the Pirates gained a five-inning triumph over the Phils. Rain washed out the rest of the contest as well as the scheduled second game. Rain also cut the scheduled twin bills in Brooklyn and New York in half.

Eddie Sauer's ninth inning single with two out scored Eddie Stanky with the run that gave Boston its first game triumph over the Reds. Kent Peterson outpitched Johnny Antonelli in the nightcap.

Dick Gonzales Wins National Tennis Crown

CHICAGO — (INS) — Richard "Pancho" Gonzales of Los Angeles and Mrs. Magda Rurac of Bucharest, Rumania, still wore their singles crowns today as the national clay court tennis champions.

The two defending champions came through to repeat on the river forest tennis club courts yesterday, Gonzales defeating Frankie Parker, 6-1, 3-6, 8-6, 6-3, and Mrs. Rurac Downing Beverly Baker of Santa Monica, Cal., 2-6, 9-7, 6-3.

Gonzales, 21-year-old holder of the national singles crown, used his youth to advantage in defeating the 33-year-old Parker in the men's singles play. Parker had won the title five times. It was the second straight championship for Gonzales.

Mrs. Rurac waged a thrilling uphill battle to defeat the 19-year-old Beverly, in the women's singles play. The Rumanian player rallied after Miss Baker failed to capitalize on three straight match points.

In the doubles play, the top seeded team of Sam Match of Los Angeles and Victor Seixas of Philadelphia, captured the title from Gonzales and Hugh Stewart of Pasadena, Cal., 6-4, 1-6, 5-7, 8-6, 9-7.

It took Gonzales one hour and 45 minutes to dispose of the tiring Parker, who was seeded No. 2 in the tournament. Pancho had little trouble in solving Frankie's service. He cannon-balled his delivery through Parker for 15 aces.

Galion, Lorain Left In Meet

BELLEVUE — Galion eliminated Elyria and Lorain ousted Loudonville in yesterday's play in the American Legion junior tournament here.

Galion went ten innings to beat Elyria, 7-6, behind the pitching of Ray Seif. Galion will meet Lorain at 1 p. m. Saturday at Bellevue, for the district championship.

Lorain led all the way in ousting Loudonville, 7-3. Horning, Lorain hurler, fanned 16 Loudonville men while Tod Brokaw set an even dozen Lorain men down on strikes.

Gets Sixty Dollars

GALION — Jim Wisler, Sportsman's grill catcher, who fractured his left ankle in a softball game last week received $60 from a benefit game. Sportsman's Grill team defeated Mansfield Todd's Jewelry team 8 to 2, in the game last Friday.

Southpaw Gives Cincy 3-2 Victory

BOSTON —(AP)— Kent Peterson, babyfaced southpaw, was back on the Cincinnati Reds' starting pitcher staff today.

Taking the mound at the beginning of a game for the first time this season here yesterday, he pleased Manager Bucky Walters mightily by going the route as the Reds beat the Boston Braves, 3-2, to split a twin bill. The home team won the first game, 5-4.

Peterson, who had acquired a 1-1 record against the Boston club in relief roles this season, threw eight-hit ball for his second triumph. He fanned seven, issued five passes.

He had a four-hit 3-0 shutout at the end of seven innings. The Beantowners scored both their runs in the eighth on a single and two doubles, one of the latter of the fluke variety.

The Reds got seven blows off high-priced Johnny Antonelli, who gave way to Nelson Potter after seven innings.

They got Peterson a 2-0 lead in the first inning. Harry Walker singled. Harry (Peanuts) Lowrey walked. Walker scored as Antonelli threw wild to first on Grady Hatton's sacrifice and Lowrey scooted home as Walker Cooper hit into a double play. The winning run was plated in the seventh as Walker walked, went to second on an infield out and scored on Hatton's single.

JOHNNY LOSES

Johnny Vander Meer was the losing pitcher in the first game. Glen Elliott, who relieved Bill Voiselle in the sixth, was the winner. Each team got 11 hits.

The Reds scored single runs in the first, second and fifth innings, but a three-run outburst by the Braves in the sixth knotted the score. Cincinnati went ahead 4-3 in the seventh but the Boston club tied it again in their half of the inning and won in the ninth with Eddie Sauer, Hank's brother, singling home the tie-breaker.

Dale Mitchell's Hitting Is Back In Groove

By HOWARD BABCOCK

CLEVELAND — (INS) — The adage, "You can't keep a good man down," might well be applied to Dale Mitchell, fleet-footed left fielder for the Cleveland Indians.

Ever since "Mitch" joined the Oklahoma City club of the Texas league in 1946, his first year in the play-for-pay ranks, his batting average has been above the .300 mark, usually well above it.

The stocky Oklahoman joined Oklahoma City, a class double A club, and batted .337 during the '46 season. He was brought up to the Indians for the last 11 games of the year and in that time he hit .432.

An impressive .316 batting average was hung up by Mitchell in his first full season with Cleveland in 1947. He led the tribe in batting that season and was named the Indians' "rookie of the year."

Last season he boosted his average to .336 but had to play second fiddle to manager Lou Boudreau for team batting honors. Boudreau's .355 was second in the American league.

A few weeks ago Dale dropped his average below the .300 mark for the first time this season but in a very short time he climbed back over the mark — and he's still climbing.

Hitting .321 at the present time, Mitch explains that he is "just meeting the ball" as he has always done. He seldom "swings for the fences," having hit only eight home runs in his professional career.

Mitchell, who will be 28 years old next month, admits that major league pitching "naturally" is tougher than the minor league brand. He added, however, that the pitchers "still have to throw it over the plate, and when they do, I'll swing."

And when Dale swings, there's a pretty good chance that another base hit will be added to his fast-growing total.

Despite the fact that "Mitch" has hit only one home run this year, he makes up for his circuit clout deficiency with three-base hits.

To date he has banged out 12 triples, four more than he hit all last season, and it is almost certain that he will break the American league mark of 15, held by Dale Alexander, before the season closes. The all-time mark of 27 is held by James T. Williams, who accomplished the feat for Baltimore of the National league in 1899.

Dale has been praised by nearly every club in the American league and by some of the all-time stars. As Tris Speaker, one of the greatest hitters in the game, put it:

"If it's still humanly possible to hit .400, Dale Mitchell is the man who can do it," and a pair of vociferous seconds were added by Manager Lou Boudreau and Coach Bill McKechnie.

Doctor Scores An Ace On Short Portage Hole

AKRON — (INS) — Dr. A. H. Franks of Akron scored an ace on the no. 3 hole over the soggy fairways on Akron's Portage Country club course yesterday for the season's second hole-in-one there.

He used a no. 6 iron to sink his 135 yard ace. The ball hit the cup on the fly and stuck.

Bonus Pitcher Relegated To Bull-Pen Duty

By JOHN McCAFFERTY

PHILADELPHIA — (INS) — Curt Simmons, the Phillies $65,000 southpaw heralded as a modern Herb Pennock, was relegated to relief roles today

Manager Eddie Sawyer and Phillies' pitching coach George Earnshaw, one - time Athletics hurling great, said Simmons' tendency to blow up in the late innings forced the move as a protection of the team's pennant contentions.

Both Sawyer and Earnshaw indicated that they feel the fourth-place Phillies would be closer to the league leading Brooklyn Dodgers if some of the eight games purportedly "blown" by Simmons this season had been won.

But both men emphasized that in relegating Simmons to relief status, the Phillies aren't giving up on their high-priced 20-year-old southpaw

"Simmons isn't going to warm the bullpen bench, branded a failure. The kid has been a problem and somewhat of a disappointment to us thus far, yes, but once he overcomes a defeatist complex, he'll become a great pitcher," Earnshaw said

A victim of baseball's controversial bonus rule which deters the Phillies from farming him out for badly needed minor league experience, Simmons apparently developed his "defeatist complex" after repeated thumpings

When the kid lefty was paid $65,000 for signing a Bluejay contract upon his graduation from Egypt, Pa , high school in 1947, he received the highest bonus ever paid a youngster of his age.

But the bonus rule forced the Phillies to keep the green rookie on the roster or face possible loss of their investment by shipping him to the minors

Time after time, Simmons hurled brilliantly for six or seven innings, only to blow up in the final innings and toss game after game away

His record shows three wins and eight losses, but every one of his losses grew out of his "defeatist complex," according to Earnshaw.

Personally, Simmons is a likeable youngster who has never been cocky about being baseball's highest paid bonus player He's willing to learn, but Earnshaw says he must win his battle with himself before he gains major league pitching fame

Little Ball Loops Are Big Stuff

By BILL KEHOE

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa — One hundred boys comprising eight teams from six states battled for the midget baseball championship of American here in a unique tournament

It was a tournament so unique it brought in writers and photographers of national publications The newsreel men also came along to witness a spectacle staged by eight to 12 - year-old lads many of whom had come from as far away as St Petersburg, Fla

The tournament was staged on one of the finest fields for boys' baseball anyone ever had seen

This summer the kids will be back to do it all over again

The national championships were originated and guided by Carl E Stotz, a bottling company employe, who more than a decade ago started a Little League and watched it grow from an infant to one of the most important athletic enterprises for boys in the entire nation.

The tournament will be held again next month and it is expected that many of the teams that competed last year will be back again in the hope of capturing the championship

In 1934, Lock Haven, Pa , emerged as the titlist, surviving a bracket that included clubs from St Petersburg Fla Middletown, Conn , Alexandria, Va , Corning N J , Hammonton N J , Harrisburg and Lock Haven, Pa

More than 4 000 persons saw the final game and approximately 17 000 witnessed the preliminary games which were held throughout the week

Just one week before the national championship there was a state tourney to decide which team in Pennsylvania should be the host club Lock Haven won the title and remained in the running to become the national champion

The impact of the National Little League championships was so great it attracted the attention of baseball fans in many parts of the land

The tournament sprang from the Little League of Williamsport which was first in America to stage juvenile baseball on a field that rivals those of the major leagues

The diamond is of grass, there are permanent stands a field house press boxes loudspeaker system an electric scoreboard, sunken dugouts of concrete, and, of course the ever-present flagpole in center field

The Little League of Williamsport until last summer had been copied by 137 leagues in various sections of America This year, according to Founder Stotz, the total will pass 300 and, by next summer, nearly 1 000 of these leagues are expected to be in operation

Stotz requires that anyone who borrows his pattern must carry out his whole plan which calls for fully uniformed players between the ages of eight and 12, 60-foot baselines, and a 40-foot-4-inch pitching distance

The cost of duplicating the Little League diamond at Williamsport, before the erection of the new field house, was estimated at $2,500. To imitate it now would require an outlay of about $5,000.

There are in Williamsport today three more Little League ball parks, each as finely appointed as the one created by Stotz They are used by the Brandon Boys' League, the Maynard Midget League and the Montoursville Baseball Association

In nearby communities there are seven other fields which, within a year or two, will rival in neatness and perfection the one Stotz began back in 1938

When the 1949 National Tournament is staged in August it is thought all of the juvenile league diamonds in Williamsport may have to be brought into use to accommodate all the clubs that want to participate At least 10 states will vie for honors this year, if present plans reach fruition

16 Top Golf Pros To Play In Inverness Four-Ball

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Now that Ohio has crowned its amateur champions, the state's golfing spotlight swings this week to one of the nation's finest fixtures—the 12th Inverness invitational four-ball matches

Sixteen of the country's finest will battle it out Thursday through Sunday for $15,000 in prizes with the top spot paying off $4,000

Ed Waitkus Expects Back In Ball Suit

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — Eddie Waitkus says he expects to be back in uniform with the Philadelphia Phillies before the season ends

The star first baseman arrived here yesterday from Chicago where he has been undergoing treatment since being shot by a crazed girl fan on June 15 A crowd of 500 greeted him at International airport

Stepping from the two plane that carried him from Chicago, Waitkus announced he was "raring to go"

Then he informed the crowd that Dr. William Adams, in Chicago said he "will be able to play ball again sometime before the season ends."

Waitkus said he expected to spend the next several weeks here under supervision of Dr Julian Johnson at the University of Pennsylvania hospital and then visit his family at Melrose, near Boston

An "Eddie Waitkus night" is being planned at Shibe Park Aug 19 when the Phils meet the New York Giants

New champions are assured in the birdie battle, for Bantam Ben Hogan will not be on hand. The tiny Texan, who teamed with Jimmy Demaret of Ojai, Calif , the last three years to take the title, is out of competitive golf because of an automobile accident several months ago.

With Hogan on the sidelines, Demaret had taken as his partner the first amateur ever to appear in the big classic—Toledo s Frank Stranahan

The fight for the top spot is wide open, with Hogan out of play He and Demaret won in 1941-46-47-48, four of the last five, a string so convincing the other entrants started calling the tournament a Hogan-Demaret "benefit"

Bobby Locke, recent winner of the British open, was among the original "Sweet 16 " but decided to pass up the event in favor of a series of exhibitions His place, as partner of dapper Dick Metz, went to Sammy Snead, Masters and PGA champion—and there may be the new winners.

Other pairings are Freddie Haas and Dave Dougles, Cary Middlecoff, national open champion, and Jim Ferrier, E J (Dutch) Harrison and Jim Turnesa, Bob Hamilton and Chick Harbert, Lloyd Mangrum and Johnny Palmer, and Clayton Heafner and Skip Alexander

Each pair will meet the other twosome in a full 18 hole match of best-ball play. Teams are given a "plus" of the number of holes they finish "up" on an opponent, and the loser gets a corresponding "minus " Scores are carried over from match to match, and at the finish the team with the greatest "plus" gets the $4,000.

One round is scheduled Thursday, following a golf clinic and driving contest, in which the long-ball hitters get $400 The team with the greatest number of birdies for the route gets an added $300 as does the pair with the lowest single-round score

Double rounds are slated Friday, Saturday and Sunday

President Turns Back On Mines

Spurns Subsidy For Industry

WASHINGTON — (UP) — President Truman is opposed to a mining industry subsidy to carry out the nation's stockpiling program, Rep. Clair Engle, D., Cal., said Saturday.

Engle is author of a bill to provide premium payments for producers of scarce minerals. But he said, that in view of Mr. Truman's attitude the legislation is dead. The measure has been approved by the House public lands committee and now is before the rules committee.

"Even if we could get rules committee approval," he said, "I don't see how we could get it passed with the President opposed to it."

Engle said domestic prices are too low to encourage production of some sorely-needed metals. However, he said, Mr. Truman believes current low prices are only temporary.

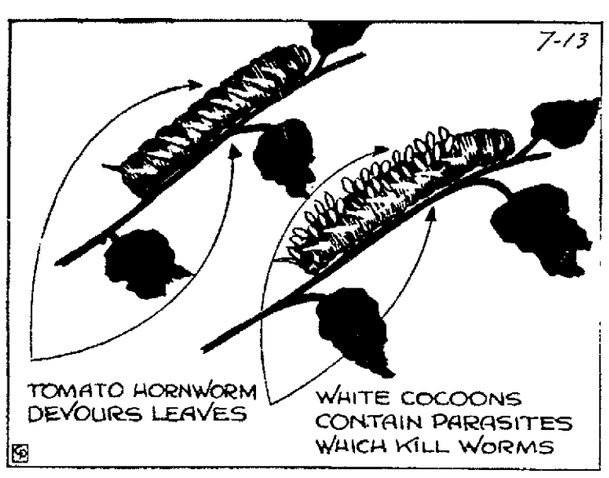

Among metals needed for the stockpiling program, Engle listed manganese, chrone, tin and mica.

He also said the government's stockpiling program is only 20 per cent completed although it has been in operation since the war. It should be completed as soon as possible, he said, because the proposed stockpiles are a bare minimum requirement for any emergency. There is no margin for safety, he said.

Engle said that Mr. Truman last week promised members of Congress to direct the munitions board to purchase minerals domestically, if it has sufficient funds. In the past, he said, the board has purchased only 13 per cent from domestic mine operators.

Engle said board purchases would help the industry. But he added that he believes the board would oppose any such Truman directive.

The Californian said he probably will introduce a bill to provide $20,000,000 for domestic mining exploration. Such an authorization was in the President's budget, he said.

Today's Garden Graph

Watch For Tomato Worms

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Central Press Association

Home gardeners are often surprised and sometimes startled to find large green worms on their tomato plants at this season. If they are startled, it is likely to be because of the slender horn which projects from the rear end of the worm. It is this horn which gives the pest its common name of tomato hornworm.

The tomato hornworm may be up to four inches in length and its green body is marked with oblique white bars, as shown in the accompanying Garden - Graph. Although it preys most commonly upon tomato plants, it also attacks eggplants, peppers and potatoes.

Oftentimes these caterpillars are seen to have small white objects covering their backs, as illustrated. These objects are not eggs, as they are often thought to be, but cocoons enclosing parasites hatched from eggs laid deep in the skin of the hornworm by an enemy wasp. Care should be taken not to destroy hornworms carrying cocoons on their back as the adult wasps will later escape to attack other worms. These parasitic wasps are helpful to the gardener who otherwise would find it necessary to hand pick the worms to get rid of them immediately.

To control the hornworms in large plantings, dust the plants in July with calcium arsenate dust or rotenone-bearing dust. Repeat applications one or two times at 10-day intervals. On tomatoes, spraying or dusting with arsenicals should be discontinued at least 10 days before the tomatoes ripen.

Horoscope

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, July 19

A rather critical astral condition makes it of prime importance that a carefully planned and shrewdly executed program or course of action be studied. There are signs of conflict and contradiction, in which the sagacity and acumen of efforts be sturdily adhered to, with sound logic and diligence against an impulse to plunge or over expend on funds, resources and energies. The judgment is not too dependable, and shortsighted moves may jeopardize, especially in projects of scope and expansion. Well-planned change helps.

For the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is, may find themselves in the midst of conflicting interests, in which prospects of scope and expansion may be jeopardized by snap-judgment, wrong ideas, shortsighted decisions and impulsive moves. The critical situation calls for studied plans, well executed system, attention to present details and long-range values and security. Do not rely over much on personal judgment, although it would be well to accept advice and assistance from higher ups with discretion.

A child born on this day while having excellent promise for putting over cherished plans and aspirations, yet may find it difficult to make up its mind on important issues. Indecision and mental obscurity may handicap.

Amorous Woman Bandit Takes Advantage of Robbery Victim

LOS ANGELES — (UP) — A perplexed police clerk filed under "rapes" today a complaint by handsome Edward Miller that two young women, one a blonde, the other a readhead, robbed him of $1, his pants and his honor.

Miller, 22 and married, said one of the women forced him at gunpoint to have amorous relations with the other.

"She was red haired," he said. "The other was blonde. They were between 22 and 30."

He did not specify which one held the gun.

The incident occurred yesterday while Miller was on a wiener roast at Palos Verdes with some church frinds.

He said he went to a parking area to change from his swimming trunks and was met by the women bandits. They forced him to accompany them to a sheltered area where the "rape" occurred, he said.

They also took his pants, which contained $1 in change, he said. Police took him to a receiving hospital for an examination.

Mrs. Miller said she was "too upset" to discuss the incident.

"It was very unfortunate," she said.

Miller dismissed the incident with a shrug of his shoulders.

Line Fence Row Taken To Court

BUCYRUS — Alleged moving of line fences in Polk township has resulted in an action being filed in Crawford county Common Pleas court here by Ralph E. and Bessie I. Treisch, Polk township, against Harry DeWolf, residing east of Galion.

A day later, the defendant tore down and erected a fence on the west side of his land without the plaintiffs' consent, the petition avers.

New Insecticide Combats House, Dairy Barn Flies

WASHINGTON — (INS) — The Agriculture department today recommended a new insecticide, more deadly than DDT, for combatting house and dairy barn flies.

The fly-killer is known commonly as lindane and is represented as a sure-fire preventive of milk contamination.

The department urged farmers to spray lindana liberally around their barns but warned them not to use it on the cows or any of their feed and drink.

Officials said its dangers to humans, is "considerably less" than that of technical benzene hexachloride — another fly-killer — and it is practically free of objectionable musty odors, the department added

The department has developed a new electrical device for dehorning calves in less than one-fifth the time required by present methods

The dehorner consists of a conventional soldering iron with a specially modified tip

The hot iron is placed on the horn-producing cells at the base of the hornbutton, killing the cells and preventing development of the horn.

Rep. Cecil White of California a newcomer to Congress wants to talk turkey

White says turkey producers need and should have price support protection at 90 per cent of parity. He also claims that California tops all other states in turkey production with a 49 million dollar crop in prospect this year

The National Potato council claims today the cost of the 1949 farm price support program for potatoes is less than one-fifth of the huge outlay for this commodity last year.

The reasons are two-fold — a substantial reduction in acreage and the slash in the level of price supports from 90 to 60 per cent of parity.

Estimated government expenditures for this year, if support purchases continue at the present rate, are 45 million dollars Last year the cost was 225 millions, counting large amounts used to dispose of the surplus in some useful manner.

The July crop report forecasts that farmers will produce about 396 million bushels of tubers in 1949, or 77 million bushels less than the previous harvest.

Producers actually planted 64,700 acres less than the agriculture department goal Officials estimate that about 1,915,000 acres were planted — the smallest acreage in 70 years

SEED CORN makes EXPENSIVE MUFFINS

Ask any farmer. The seed corn, the corn he'll use to plant next year's crop, is the most important thing he raises.

Not only this, he saves for seed the most perfect ears he has. For he realizes that only in this way can he improve the quality and abundance of his yield. He'd never turn his seed corn into muffins, however much he liked muffins.

A company such as ours saves seed corn, too. Our profits are our seed corn. From our profits, after taxes, we take a major part and plan for our future expansion. This seed corn or "profits" quickly becomes "capital" and it goes to work immediately. It creates jobs. It builds new refineries, lays new pipe lines, discovers new oil wells, improves products for you. The public we serve is now asking for 50% more petroleum products than before the war. These re-invested profits are needed to enable us to increase supply and render better service to growing industry and the community.

All this is a "system". A system that creates jobs, supplies needs, keeps America the land of good living it is.

Do you know of a better "system"?

Skeleton Force of Legislators Cleaning Up Assembly Work

One Session Remaining On Agenda

Final Action Due On 307 Measures

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Ohio's legislators for the most part were back at their homes and offices today, preparing to start delayed vacations.

Only a small force of senators and representatives remained at the capital to clean up loose ends and be present at the signing by presiding officers of the many bills passed by the 98th General Assembly.

A skeleton session of the House may be held late today. In any event, both the House and Senate will hold brief sessions tomorrow.

Bills passed during the final working hours of the session late Friday night and early Saturday must be signed by Senate and House officers before going to the governor.

Officially, the legislature won't adjourn until July 29. If Gov. Frank J. Lausche should veto any bills before then, the lawmakers would have a chance to reconsider and possibly pass such measures over a veto.

As yet, the governor has not indicated whether he will reject any of the 307 measures passed by the legislature. More than 1,000 were introduced during the session.

Among those which will be signed by the presiding officers are the $99,000,000 capital improvements bill, the deficiency appropriation measure of $2,000,000 for the state's half-share of poor relief funds, a sundry claims bill for $318,693.94, the uniform municipal court act, and the bill to standardize wages and the jobs of some 26,000 state employes.

As the legislators went home after 28 weeks of work, Republicans and Democrats still debated whether Governor Lausche would have trouble making ends meet under the record $647,000,000 budget.

House Minority Leader C. William O'Neill (R-Washington) contended that anticipated revenues will fall $18,000,000 short of the money appropriated. But House Speaker John F. Cantwell (D-Mahoning) said Governor Lausche had plenty of "cushion" in the budget and a potential markup of the state liquor profits to make up any deficits.

Steel Hit By Spell of 'Jitters'

Supply, Demand Nearing Balance

CLEVELAND — (UP) — A degree of uncertainty "almost without precedent put the jitters in the steel industry" as it faced the strike, the magazine Steel reported today.

"Steel users, all week long sought to expedite mill shipments" said the trade publication. Steel said "the feeling in the trade is that immediate repercussions from any walkout would be less severe than during the strike of 1946."

At that time, the magazine continued, steel shortages prevailed on every side, whereas today, they pointed out, "supply and demand balance has been attained, and in general consumers' inventories are sufficiently high to bridge a substantial gap in new deliveries."

Ore suppliers have received hold-up instructions from several steel makers.

"In the event of a prolonged strike great lakes shipping would be adversely affected. Ore carriers may be tied up at the lower lakes after ore stockpiling facilities have been jammed," Steel said.

"There is a slight quickening of demand, but these last-minute efforts to provide against the possibility of a strike could not be met in most instances," the steel publication said.

Changes in steel prices were few, Steel added. Steelmaking operations rose from the holiday slump, and the industry, at the brink of the strike, operated at 77 per cent of its capacity, a 17 per cent rise over last week, it continued.

Operations at district points are quoted as follows:

Chicago 26 points to 93.5 per cent; Youngstown 25 points to 75; Cincinnati 24 points to 96; Pittsburgh 20 points to 73.5; Wheeling 13 points to 81; eastern Pennsylvania 12 points to 80; Cleveland and Detroit 11 points to 75.5 and 102 respectively; Bufaalo 2½ points to 87.5; New England 2 points to 40 per cent.

No estimate on likely operations this week was possible because of the uncertainty surrounding the labor situation, the magazine said.

Quaker Group Issues Report Showing Hopes For Peace

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — The American Friends Service committee peeked into an international crystal ball today and if what they saw is true, there's good reason for dancing in the streets.

The Quaker organization, winner of the 1947 Nobel peace prize, made public a 28-page report on the state of the world, drafted after six months of exhaustive study in global conflict.

The report boils down to these basic conclusions:

1. War is not inevitable between the United States and Russia.

2. But it won't be easy to establish a lasting peace.

3 Both the U. S. and the Soviet Union must give in a little from their present unyielding positions.

The report pointed up the Quakers' belief that the core of the cold war now is economic.

And, said the report, "economic warfare is a two - edged sword."

It said that such crippling moves as the U. S. embargo on trade with Russia and the Soviet refusal to take part in the Marshall plan do not have "any substantial bearing on the retarding of a country's relative war potential."

Scientists Mix Immunity Shots, Give Three At Once

MONTREAL, Canada — (AP) — McGill university scientists have given children three kinds of immunity mixed together in a single hypodermic needle.

They are diphtheria, whooping cough and tetanus. This combined shot is given twice. It replaces six needle pricks and extra trips to the doctor required by ordinary vaccinations.

The triple shot multiplied the effectiveness of the diphtheria immunity by about 16 times. The other two were not weakened. The combination took no more of each kind of vaccine, in fact a little less.

These results offer a welcome relief from a long-held belief that each kind of immunization must be given separately.

The McGill group are Donald S. Fleming, M. D., associate professor of bacteriology and Louis Greenberg, PH. D., now at the laboratory of Hygiene, Ottawa. They back their work with a world wide survey of literature showing that both for children and adults various kinds of double or triple immunizations have been effective.

Other combinations are typhoid and diphtheria, tetanus, typhoid and paratyphoid, and all four of these at once. As in the McGill experiments, it sometimes happens that one immunizing substance enhances the good effects of another.

In the offing are many other kinds of immunization. Yellow fever already is established. Flu, cholera and common cold vaccines are used to some extent. Yearly some progress is reported toward a vaccine for infantile paralysis.

The combination of several of there in one needle will save time, probably money and certainly discomfort.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — A city bus driver, robbed by three armed men, whipped out a pistol and killed one of the trio as they fled yesterday.

Police identified the man killed as Leroy Nelson, 23. A wallet he had taken from a passenger was found clutched in his hand.

Father Foots the Bill

Lonesome, Spends $2,000 For Reunion

ANGOLA, Ind. — (INS) — A Wheaton, Ill., father, who missed the fellowship of his family, scattered from Connecticut to California, spent $2,000 to bring them all together again for a vacation-reunion this past week.

Twenty-two members of the family of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Kellogg, of Wheaton, gathered at Potawatomi inn in Pokagon state park after the father sent his five children and their families train and pullman tickets.

The family head, who is in the insurance and tax accounting business in Chicago, said: "It cost me over $2,000 but that is a small factor in the good to be derived to each individual and to us all collectively as we enjoy this family fellowship and loyalty."

His three daughters and two sons are scattered over the nation.

The senior Kellogg, who included a daily evening worship service in his plans for his vacationing family, has aided in establishing and financing several small community churches.

One of the sons, the Rev. Edward L. Kellogg, is pastor of a West Collingswood, N. J., church and is national moderator of the orthodox Presbyterian church. The other son, Thomas Nelson Kellogg, is an aerial photographer at Mt. Ephraim, N. J., and is an elder in a church of the same denomination.

Mountain Moves, So Does Family

MOSCOW, Ida. — UP) — The meandering mountain of central Idaho is on the go again. The L. D. Nixon family have been advised to move from their ranch at the base of the mountain before it rolls right over them.

The advice is from Dr. Vernon Scheid, head of the University of Idaho's geology department, whose investigations found the mountain moving at the rate of a quarter of an inch an hour.

Dr. Schied explained that the mountain moves on a lubricant of water seeping from an irrigation canal on the mountain down to the "glide plane."

Lower Prices Real Remedy

WHILE ACTUAL figures show increasing "unemployment" there is appearance of need for a breaking down of totals into various classifications which would tend to reveal causes and conditions, rather than to deal merely with totals.

During the war, for instance, many people were in industrial employment who would not ordinarily have been thus engaged—as in the case of housewives who took industrial or clerical jobs to help during the emergency but who had not anticipated permanent employment, although some such are now listed among "unemployed."

Then there are those who, while inefficient workers, were employed on various sorts of jobs through necessity, and who became "unemployed" as soon as more competent persons became available.

And finally, it cannot be doubted that a considerable number of persons who are really "unemployables" are listed as "unemployed."

Having legitimate place among "unemployed" are those who have been discharged or laid off because of decreasing production needs in various industries, or in other lines of employment.

Assuming that social security, pensions, relief payments and other sources of income will be sufficient to care for needs of those who have not heretofore depended on remunerative employment, it is those who are temporarily out of jobs because of the business slowdown that need be given serious consideration—for it is these who, in many cases, have assumed obligations in home purchases and the like, which cannot be met unless income is resumed soon.

This point looms large in present efforts, in some lines of industry, to gain further wage increases for the smaller number now being employed, and a much better solution would seem to be a concentration of effort on lowering prices and thus increasing consumer demand for products, rather than forcing further price increases by raising production costs.

Post-war inflation has brought prices to such high levels, in many commodities, as to be prohibitive to individuals and families with moderate income.

Lower prices would raise the standard of living for millions of Americans, and among the beneficiaries would be all of those who now seek higher wages to keep pace with excessive prices.

Expansion of production is essential to what is called "full employment", and this can be attained only by lowering prices to a level at which more people can buy more things. Higher wages attained by strikes or strike threats will merely serve to complicate the situation. Substantial price reductions is a real solution which will benefit everybody.

Should County Fair Be Revived?

ANOTHER part of Richland county's "unfinished business" is what to do about the fairgrounds, which has been under discussion for a number of years—without action.

This is again brought to public notice by the controversy that has arisen within the fair board over needed repairs of various buildings, some of which have been found to be in such dangerous condition as to be condemned as fire hazards.

The customary county fair, as creditably conducted for many years, with agricultural exhibits and horse racing as major attractions, has dwindled to a Junior fair, with dependence placed on exhibits of live stock and farm products by rural young people.

While many other Ohio counties continue to hold attractive and well-patronized fair each year, prosperous Richland county has allowed this activity to deteriorate to a point where either revival or total abandonment may well be considered.

Just why, in this matter of public business, a newspaper reporter should be barred from a meeting of officials at which this subject was being discussed is not clear—unless it is because affairs of this board are so muddled that secrecy is adopted as a protective measure.

Hysteria Behind Iron Curtain

HYSTERIA over possible foreign and domestic enemies is not confined to the United States. So George V. Allen, assistant secretary of state for public affairs, told a meeting of the American National Red Cross at Atlantic City. "Hysteria here," he said, "is not one hundredth of what exists behind the Iron Curtain."

The radio jamming of American and other foreign broadcasts attests to the Soviet uneasiness over possibility that some unauthorized idea might leak through and reach someone who hitherto had heard nothing but canned government propaganda.

Another development, less important but also significant, is the recent closing of the schools conducted outside Russia by Russian teachers for the children of diplomats and other officials. Though some have been going for thirty years and all were carefully controlled by the Russian government, fear evidently exists of some possible communication through them between Russians and the outside world.

Perhaps William L. White, the newspaperman, was correct in comparing communist Russian to a moderately well-run penitentiary.

Washington Calling

Promises Easily Made

By MARQUIS CHILDS

EVEN though political memories are notoriously short, few politicians can have forgotten President Truman's repeated campaign pledge to work for low-cost public power. At every whistle stop in the west he talked about the need not only for government - owned power dams but for government-owned transmission lines to carry public power at low rates.

Those promises helped him to carry many western states, which at the beginning of the campaign were considered sure for Governor Dewey. Yet now the sizeable Democratic majorities in Senate and House, a vital feature of the program has been given the axe.

In areas where large public-power projects have been built the advocates of low-cost power believe it is essential that the government construct and operate transmission lines.

Otherwise, a private utility—a private monopoly instead of a public monopoly—buys the power at the dam at a low pric and sells it to the consumer at a considerably higher price.

Republicans in the 80th Congress cut out funds for such lines. Now Democrats have joined Republicans in a Senate committee report to take the same action.

How can this happen in the face of repreated Democratic campaign pledges? One answer is that highly placed Democrats who participated directly in the Truman victory did not seem anxious to make good on the pledges. On the contrary, they were working for the private utilities.

Williams M. Boyle, jr., executive director of the Democratic national committee, wrote a letter to the department of interior as the representative of Southwest Utilities opposing publicly owned transmission lines for the southwest power authority. When Speaker Sam Rayburn got wind of this he charged down to the White House and it was not long afterward that Boyle ceased his private law practice and became full-time paid director of the Democratic committee.

A little later a former executive of the committee, Richard Nacy, Jefferson City, Mo., banker, asked congressmen to vote against the power lines. As in the case of Boyle, several Fair Deal Democrats protested to the White House.

* * *

Strong Supporters.

EVEN though the impression was spread by these friends of the President that a vote against this phase of the public-power program was okay, the House approved it. In the Senate, however, the private - power lobby found allies in a few Senators who occupy highly strategic positions.

On the Senate subcommittee considering the interior department bill were Senator Pat McCarran of Nevada and Senator Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma, both Democrats. They are credited with doing more than anyone to see that items fought by the power lobby were stricken out of the bill as it came to the Senate from the House. And highest honors are quite generally awarded to McCarran.

The senator from Nevada has in this session of Congress made himself the outstanding champion of special interest and special prejudices. Even though there is considerable rivalry, he stands at the head of that list.

Almost singlehanded McCarran has bottled up the Displaced Persons bill. He got committee approval of $50,000,000 for Franco in Spain, he engineered a 10 percent cut in the ECA appropriation. And that is only a part of his accomplishments.

Failure to follow through on the campaign promises will leave many Americans wondering whether there is any meaning in a campaign promise or whether it is all "just campaign oratory."

Frankly Speaking

Job For 'Fact-Finders'

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON — President Truman's board of three fact-finders in the steel dispute have a big job.

But there'll be no steel strike for the next 60 days while they do their job and report what they find. At the end of that time there may or may not be a strike. At least it's been delayed two months.

All last week the nation hovered on the edge of a strike, which came about this way:

The steel companies had turned down the demands of the CIO steelworkers for better pay, pensions and so on.

The workers threatened to strike at the weekend. Then this became more than just a dispute between workers and companies.

It became a problem involving the public. A strike, if it lasted long, would affect the nation, particularly since the country is in a slump.

But what were the facts? In this dispute which side was right; the public didn't know because it had no facts.

All the public knew was that the workers had asked greater benefits, and the companies had said "we can't give."

But could the companies afford to give some or all of what the workers asked? Did the workers have any real claim to anything? Or, were they asking too much?

* * *

Answers Awaited.

THOSE questions were unanswered, the strike was impending, and now three things have happened:

1. President Truman has appointed a fact-finding board of three men—none of them connected with the companies, the government or the workers—to learn the facts and tell the public what they find.

2 The workers and the companies have agreed to cooperate with the fact-finders in giving them information, or, at least, in presenting their sides of the argument.

3. Both sides have agreed there'll be no work stoppage for the next 60 days.

When they're all through making their check, the fact-finders will recommend that:

The companies can afford to give the workers none, or some, or all of what they ask.

But, since there's no law compelling either side to do what the board recommends, neither side has to budge an inch from its present position. It can ignore what the board recommends.

If that happens then, at the end of the 60 days, there may be a strike and all the board's work will have gone for nothing.

Loyalty Oaths.

This business of loyalty oaths seems to be getting out of hand. Now that the National Education association has taken up the cudgel the oath is a big issue, and it isn't worth the ruckus.

The trouble with the oath applied to public employes is its futility. A few conspicuous party members might hesitate to take the oath for fear of a possible perjury charge, but they aren't likely to show up in teaching jobs anyway. Fellow travelers and small fry Communists are not likely to refuse to swear anything in the service of Moscow. The principle result is irritation of loyal citizens.

Private Power Lobby Turns the Trick

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — The private power lobby pulled skillful wires in the Senate appropriations committee last week and created a neat short circuit in one of Mr. Truman's famous campaign promises. The effect was to switch public power over to the private utility companies in the west.

What the committee did was cut out appropriations for government transmission facilities and invite the private power companies to build them instead.

This would stop public power from being transmitted to the public—except throught the private companies at their own higher rates.

The committee voted so secretly behind closed doors that its action was scarcely noticed by the press. Yet the effect was to sabotage the entire Truman public-power program.

The man who really threw the switch in favor of the electric companies was Senator Elmer Thomas, Oklahoma Democrat. Thomas, who has not hesitated to use his prestige as a U. S. senator to influence the commodities market on which he as speculating, rallied enough Democratic votes to give the Republicans the voting majority.

The two senators who fought hardest to save public power were Carl Hayden of Arizona and Joe O'Mahoney of Wyoming. Democrats. They were joined on most votes by Senator Dennis Chavez of New Mexico, Democrat, and Senator Milt Young of North Dakota, Republican.

Those who voted with Thomas for the big power companies were Senators Pat McCarran of Nevada and Kenneth McKellar of Tennessee, Democrats, and Chan Gurney of South Dakota, Clyde Reed of Kansas and Guy Cordon of Oregon, Republicans.

* * *

Showdown Fight Promised.

THE showdown fight will now take place in the conference between Senate and House appropriations members. The House has already voted against the power companies and the man who is counted on to fight for the public interest is tough Congressman Mike Kirwan of Ohio. Though he hasn't a single power project in his district, Mike is always ready to roll up his sleeve and battle for public power.

* * *

How The Lobby Worked.

THE Senate's sellout to the private power companies was the result of high-paid, high-pressure lobbying.

The Montana Power company was an example. John Corette, vice president of Montana Power, personally visited every member of the House and Senate appropriations committees.

While he was exerting his charm in Washington, his company back home was publishing a propaganda book called "Public Power Means High Taxes, Socialism and Less Money for Irrigation."

The Montana chamber of commerce even spread the lie that public power lines would rob Montana of power by transporting it to Idaho for an atomic energy plant.

Released to the press by James Flaherty, president of the Montana chamber of commerce, this was categorically denied by Atomic Energy Chairman David Lilienthal.

Montana is a long way from Iowa, but the Montana Power company even influenced Rep. Ben Jensen, Iowa Republican. Arising on the House floor, Jensen produced a map of Montana.

Congressman John Rooney, Brooklyn Democrat, interrupted suspiciously.

"I merely want to ask the gentleman who prepared this beautiful map?" sweetly inquired Rooney.

"Who does the gentleman suppose made it?" snapped Jensen. "The Montana Power company," promptly replied Rooney.

"Why, of course they did," blustered Jensen. "They are fighting for their lives. I am glad the gentleman asked."

* * *

Who Gets the Gravy.

SO SKILLFUL did the lobbies operate that the Senate appropriations committee went to the unusual length of naming the individual power companies which they wanted to receive the lush bonanza of government-financed power.

Idaho Power company was named to carry power from the Anderson ranch dam near Boise. Pacific Gas and Electric company is to get the Shasta dam facilities, supplying the rich California central valley. The Public Service company of Colorado is to construct facilities for the big Thompson project.

The committee report stated that private companies should transmit power to government projects free of charge. This was not required in the law, however, and, in the past, the electric companies have flatly refused.

Congress In Quandary

By THOMAS L. STOKES

WASHINGTON — Not is our time has the Senate of the United States approached a decision on a great foreign policy issue with such doubts and misgivings as it has in proceeding toward ratification of the Atlantic Pact.

This should have deep meaning for our political leaders from President Truman down, and if properly interpreted, assessed and acted upon, could have a healthy and beneficient influence for the peace of the world.

For this guilty conscience—and that is what it really is—expresses the anxiety of our people about military alliances and their deep-seated urge for a positive, rather than a negative, program to establish order in the world.

It is exemplified in personal wrestlings with the soul on the Senate floor during the debate on the Atlantic Pact.

Such as, on one hand, that of Senator Gillette of Iowa, a Democrat, who after a long, emotional speech attacking the fundamental philosophy of the pact finally announced he would vote for it "with the greatest reluctance, with deep misgivings, with grave doubts and qualms." Or, on the other hand, that of Senator Taft of Ohio, a Republican, who after a well-organized critical analysis, announced his conclusion to vote against the pact "with the greatest discomfort."

The uncertainty is manifest, too, in the increased opposition to the treaty as debate wore on which, however, was not a threat to ultimate ratification. For ratification was sure and to some degree for the practical reason best expressed by Senator Gillette when he said:

"We are now virtually obliged to ratify the North Atlantic treaty, if we are not to make our nation the butt of ridicule and scorn around the world."

* * *

What Is Right Course?

HE SPOKE what is the hard truth, that is, that the Senate in this case was presented with what the French call a fait accompli, a frequent practice, as the senator said, of those in charge of our foreign policy, and with the result, as he put it, that "Congress is given the dubious perogative of nodding its head to already accomplished deeds, of exercising purely rhetorical functions long after the discussion has reached a stage beyond recall."

The anxious and hesitant mood with which the Senate has debated this issue seems of considerable significance. It contrasts, for example, with the lift and exultation, both in Congress and among our people, with which the United Nations was ratified with only two dissenting votes.

It is a recognition of our failure with the United Nations and it provoked questions in the Senate as to why we have not done more to strengthen the UN, why we have not taken the leadership boldly on a positive program, istead of falling back on this negative, defensive alliance.

The questioning attitude of the Senate surely reflects the doubts among our people over this step, and their desperate hunger for forward steps.

All our guilty conscience needs is bold leadership.

That we have a guilty conscience is, itself, the beginning of wisdom.

Don't Expect Gratitude

By ELSIE ROBINSON

EDITH ELLIS is beefing because she gave some important charity to a poor family and found them spending it on "foolish trash."

It makes me think of the words Vincent de Paul speaks to little Jeanne just before she makes her first visit to the poor in that beautiful and intensely moving French film, "Monsieur Vincent."

Vincent de Paul is now an old man, broken by a lifetime of selfless toil among the poor, and although an emissary from the Pope waits to see him, Monsieur Vincent in his last hours sends instead for this young girl who is about to begin her life of devotion to charity.

"You will learn that charity is a heavy burden to carry," he warns her, "heavier than the kettle of soup or the basket of bread. But you will keep your gentleness and your smile, for you are the little servant of the poor, the Maid of Charity.

"They are your masters, your terribly sensitive and exacting masters. And the uglier and the dirtier they are, the more unjust and bitter, the more you must give them of your love. It is only because of your love, your love alone, that the poor will forgive you the bread that you give them."

* * *

WHAT a pity that most of us cannot apply that eternal truth to our daily lives. What a pity that we can't realize that charity is its own reward regardless of what the other fellow does about it.

For it is more than likely that the other fellow will betray you or ridicule you or spend your largess foolishly whether he is a friend, a stranger or even one of your own kin. And if you expect him to reward you with gratitude, you're surely out of luck. The glow in your own heart is the only true reward, the enlargement of your own wisdom is the only permanent payoff.

Does that comfort you when you remember that your husband ran off with another woman or your best friend jumped his bond? It should.

You are as wide and as deep and as tall as the reach of your spirit.

If you deal generously with your fellows in the hope of making a fine name for yourself, that is not kindness.

If you give rich gifts expecting equally rich gifts in return, your gift is not a love offering and will be received in the same spirit in which it is given.

If you give alms to the poor expecting gratitude, that is not charity.

It is said that it is more blessed to give than to receive. That is true if the giver is big enough and humble enough to give — out of love — in spite of the scorn he will inevitably receive.

Speaking of Your Health

Getting Over An Illness

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

AS A RULE, we do not recover all at once from a serious illness. The road back to health is sometimes long and often tedious, but it can usually be shortened by good care. Moreover, obeying the doctor's orders at this time prevents relapses and insures against permanent damage.

Doctors know that the convalescent patient is often irritable, lacks interest and has a poor appetite, yet good nourishing food during this time is extremely important so that material may be supplied for repair of the body tissues.

Appetizing Way.

The food must be prepared and served in an appetizing way. It does no good to overload the patient's plate, because this may only serve to lessen his desire for food. Between-meal snacks may be valuable in helping to supply the necessary nourishment.

The patient must be watched for signs of overtiredness, such as restlessness and loss of interest, yawning, increased pulse rate, slight fever, sleeplessness and loss of appetite.

Often the patient may recover more rapidly in new surroundings, if he can be freed from worry and care. A change of climate may often prove of great benefit, particularly to those who have had a prolonged illness.

The patient should get back to his normal activities and duties as soon as possible, including such things as dressing in his usual clothes and eating his meals with the family.

It is also helpful to get the patient out of doors as soon as possible when the weather permits.

Visitors Welcome.

As a rule, visitors to the convalescent patient are welcome. However anyone with a cold, sore throat or other infection should be kept away, and visitors should not prolong their stay until the patient is tired.

Furthermore, they should be thoughtful in their conversation and should be cautioned against discussing illnesses and morbid subjects.

The patient must be watched closely so that if any symptoms develop which indicate a recurrence of illness they may be promptly detected and reported to the physician.

As Cerf Tells It

In a single memorable issue of the Hollywood Reporter, Director Mike Curtiz was quoted as warning the world of science, "You fellows better lay off monkeying with the atom bomb: it's dynamite!" and Judy Canova was reported advising a group of high school students to "live your life so that you'll be proud to have Don Ameche play it some day."

Miss Betty Pagnard, a close friend of the bride, served as her only attendant. She was attired in a pink rayon street length dress, fashioned with eyelet embroidery on the bodice. Her accessories were navy blue. Miss Pagnard carried a colonial bouquet of pink roses and white delphinium.

Mrs. Rankin chose for her daughter's wedding a grey silk print dress with white and grey accessories. She wore a corsage of Talisman roses. Mrs. Lewis chose a black crepe and satin dress with white accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

Lloyd K. Lewis served his brother as best man. Fred A. Lewis, another brother of the bridegroom, and James Meeting, a friend, escorted guests to their pews.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception for 100 guests was held in the church parlors. A three-tiered wedding cake was served. Mrs. Charles Osbun and Mrs. M. E. Barrett poured.

For traveling through the eastern states and Niagara Falls, Mrs. Lewis wore a slipper-blue gabardine suit with blue-and-white accessories. They will be at home at 184 North Benton street after July 25.

DUDE RANCH: A Vacation Idea For Fishing, Riding

Do you wish you lived in days when the west was wild and rugged? In shows you see the cowboys mounting their favorite Palomino and chasing after bandits and rustlers. When you leave, perhaps, you have the longing to ride over mountains and desert with the men of the range.

Up in the hills of Michigan is he answer to all your desires. It's the Jack and Jill Dude Ranch on Big Wildcat lake!

That king of sports, riding, leads the field in interest with dude ranchers. There are leafy woodland trails and open rolling hills to find many lakes and streams that make that country a vacation paradise.

One of the high spots of the week is a 'breakfast ride'. After a brisk canter you will enjoy breakfast cooked over an open fire with the old timers showing the tenderfoot how it's done.

They offer both spirited and gentle horses, whatever may be your choice. Overnight camping trips can be taken among the hills with just the sky and stars overhead. Eating out—where the open air adds a flavor of its own to the food.

Along with riding is suggested archery, fishing, swimming, tennis, badminton, canoeing, boating, ping - pong, shuffleboard, darts, horseshoes, volley ball, hiking, miniature golf, riflery and rope spinning.

If you need a stream with fish, to get your husband on a vacation, there'll be plenty of black bass, pickerel and perch besides the smaller fish.

Yes, the old west lives again in the hills along quiet Lake Michigan!

North Carolina now is the leading furniture producing state of the United States.

MR. AND MRS. PERCY BROOKS AND MRS. STROUD

LONDONERS COMPARE ENGLAND AND U.S.

By ANN SCHOENMEN

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Brooks of London, England, celebrated their 35th wedding anniversary recently in Mansfield, Ohio, U. S. A. They are in America to visit their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. William Stroud, 46½ West second street.

After a five day trip on the Queen Elizabeth over smooth seas, they arrived in New York City. And of that city, Mr. Brooks said, "It isn't safe for pedestrians! Things move too fast. Screeching brakes and rushing cars make it unsafe for the person walking. The buildings, though, are majestic!"

Mr. Brooks, who is an inspector with the Ministry of Food in England, recently had an interview with one of the managers of a super market located in Mansfield. Such stores are not in exsistance in their country because of food rationing still being carried on. One or two small stores were established, but they were not too well received by the general public. Mr. Brooks believes though that if they would have a super market such as we have here, they would be patronized by the people.

The dress shops in Mansfield are generally on the same scale as those in London, he said. Here the people have a larger selection, but the styles are very much equal to those in the Brooks' own country.

This is the first time the English people have seen their daughter here in several years. In November of 1946, Mrs. Stroud came to the United States to marry her fiance in Atlanta, Ga. on December 3 of the same year. Mrs. Stroud met her husband in England while he was stationed there with the Eighth Air Force as a major.

Mansfield's climate compares closely to that of England, they say. This is the first year that the Brooks can remember it registering 95 degrees in London.

"The temperature recorded on the roof of the Air Ministry was certainly abnormal," stated Mr. Brooks. He went on to say, "People all over your country talk of visiting Florida. My wife and I have no desire to go there for any length of time. It's too hot!"

Before the visitors return to England, August 4, they will motor to Niagara Falls and travel through Canada. They will be accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Stroud.

Mr. Brooks was a guest of Lloyd Paste at the recent meeting of Lodge No. 35, Masonic Order. Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Banks, Forest drive, gave a dinner party in honor of the visitors, and on Thursday Mr. Brooks witnesses his first baseball game when he saw the Cleveland Indians play the Washington Senators. Other friends of the Strouds have given parties for their parents during their stay.

Spinster Party Held At Cox Residence

Miss Betty Walters, who became Mrs. Edward Jackson, Saturday, was feted with a spinster dinner Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Rupert Cox jr., 1600 Marion avenue.

The associate hostesses were Mrs. Richard Talmage, Mrs. Merrill Swigart, Mrs. Sherman Perlman and Miss Frances Coffman. Sixteen guests were present.

Bridge was the diversion of the evening with prizes awarded to Mrs. Thomas Scott. Miss Walters, and Mrs. Howard Ripper. A buffet dinner was served by candlelight from a table centered with a crepe paper doll bride. Placecards were used with garden flowers attached. The candelabra on the buffet table was banked with garden flowers.

MEET AT FARM

Members of the Thursday Nighters of the St. Paul Lutheran church will meet for a supper party at 6 p. m. at the Fred Miller farm. The committee in charge of arrangements is composed of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Miller jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Teeter.

Delegates Report On State Convention At Meeting

Mrs. V. C. Hageman, president of the Ladies auxiliary to Veterans of Foreign Wars, Post 3494, presided for the group's regular meeting held Friday evening in Memorial building.

Various committee reports were given. Mrs. Robert Baehr, hospital chairman, reported that magazines and puzzles had been collected to be sent to veterans' hospitals.

Reports from the delegates, who attended the twenty-ninth FVW convention, held in Cleveland June 30 to July 3, were given. The delegates were Mrs. Vern Castor, Mrs. Margaret Welty, Mrs. Elizabeth Harter and Mrs. Carrie Snyder.

The resignation of Mrs. Cynthia Heifner, as historian, was read and accepted.

The group voted to hold a bake sale Ausust 27 at the Third Street Market. Mrs. Baehr is chairman of the sale. After the business meeting a white elephant sale was held. Mrs. James Brownscombe served as auctioneer.

Luncheon was served in the canteen to auxiliary members by Mrs. Baehr and Mrs. Robert Wise. Members of the VFW post were guests. The next meeting will be held August 19 in Memorial building at 8 p. m.

Do You Really Want to Take Off Ugly Fat?

Recently there have been a number of new reducing preparations on the market, some of them based on the diet and vitamin "plan." It is obvious that vitamins will not reduce the body weight, so one must depend on diet to reduce. But it is also obvious that one cannot go on a strenuous diet over a protracted period, and any weight lost will be restored if the former eating habits are gone back to.

So what to do? Well, here is a tip to you "overweight gals" who want to fight "the Battle of the Bulges" in a different way. Ask any well stocked Ohio druggist for four ounces of Rennel. Mix with 12 ounces of grapefruit juice and take two tablespoonfuls twice a day.

This preparation contains nothing harmful and the makers agree to refund your money on the very first bottle if it does not show you the way to lose ugly fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves.

Rennel is low in cost and is not based on the diet and vitamin "plan." You need never know a hungry moment while reducing with Rennel. —Adv.

Charles Spitaleri Weds Cleveland Girl July 4

At a solemn high nuptial mass, Miss Anna Marie Natale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Natale, 3523 East 138th street, Cleveland, became the bride of Charles Spitaleri, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Spitaleri sr., 182 Gerke avenue, July 4, at 9 a. m. Vows were exchanged in the Epiphany Catholic Church, Cleveland, with Rev. Father Dunn officiating.

The single ring ceremony was performed before an altar decorated with white summer flowers. Flowers, smilax and ribbons adorned the pews.

Given in marriage by her father, Carl Natale of Cleveland, the bride wore a white summer satin gown, fashioned with a bodice of net tulle, trimmed with a satin design and outlined in seed pearls. The long fitted sleeves came to points over the hands, and were edged with Chantilly lace. The long full skirt extended into a wide full train.

Her long full length veil of French illusion was edged in Chantilly lace and held in place by a ruffle of the same material and a halo of orange blossoms. Her only jewelry was a white diamond cross, given to her by her mother-in-law, at the time her engagement was announced.

She carried a bouquet of white roses with white satin streamers and centered with a white orchid.

Miss Carmie Amato, of Cleveland, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. Mrs. Frank Perry of Mansfield, sister-in-law of the groom, and the Misses Annette Emanual, Evelyn Magnasco and Regina Mae Fana, all of Cleveland, were bridesmaids. They wore identical gowns of blue marquisette over blue taffeta, fashioned with an off-the-shoulder neckline, with full skirts. The maid of honor wore yellow. They all wore matching sweetheart hats and carried bouquets of assorted roses.

Joyce Kantor and Jo Anna Fana, cousins of the bride, were the flower girls. Joyce was dressed in a white chiffon off-the-shoulder gown, styled in a period design, and Jo Ann wore a white high necked chiffon in the same style. They wore white hats, tied under the chin by an aqua ribbon. The bouquets were small colonial arrangements.

The bride's mother wore a silk print dress. Her accessories were white with an orchid shoulder corsage. The groom's mother was in navy chiffon with acessories in navy and white. Her flowers were also orchids.

Leonard Kreinbihl of Mansfield, close friend of the bridegroom, was best man. Frank Perry, also of Mansfield, brother-in-law of the groom, Joseph Zagara, Carmen Monthello and Jerry Olivo, all of Cleveland, were the ushers.

A wedding buffet breakfast was held immediately following the ceremony. Hostesses were Mrs. John Kantor and Mrs. Frank Sinito of Cleveland, aunts of the bride.

A dinner was served at 2 p. m. at Nelsons for the immediate families and out - of - town guests.

This was followed by a reception at 7:30 p. m. at the CIO hall for 700 guests. Music was furnished for dancing by the Mellow Masters of Cleveland.

A six tiered wedding cake centered the bridal table.

For traveling through the south east Mrs. Spitaleri wore a toast colored suit and matching accessories and the orchid from her bouquet. After July 20 they will be at home at 610 Stewart Lane.

The bride attended Cleveland schools and the bridegroom was graduated from Mansfield schools.
